1.A user opens the app and searches for a movie they want to watch.

2.The system displays available showtimes for that movie in their preferred location.

4.The system shows a real-time map of available seats for that screening.

5.The user chooses a number of seats and selects specific ones on the map.

6.The system temporarily "locks" these selected seats for a short period .

7.This temporary hold prevents other users from booking the same seats.
